TICHENOR IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Chicago Owner Will Race in East Next Year, and Thinks That He Has a Great String to Campaign Ther.

Special Correspondence of The Sunday Republic, New Orleans, Lia. Jun. 18.—The official the stewards at the Fair Grounds, and lacdents resulting therefrom, have formshed uple food for gossips during the past lick. The Hicks case was disposed of in the rematarement of Hicks, the excluden of Darneld from the grounds and the exoneraon of Wright and Ownby. On top of this ding, however, Steeplechase Jockey Penn. he negro lad who was ruled off here last winter in the steeplechase frauds, and in which three or four other lockeys were barred from the tarf, applied to the stew-ards for reinstatument. As preliminary to or a recently form of the stewards obtained from him a sworn document that, if true, throws considerable light on the steeplechase steals.

Incidentally, it implicates Hatfield and Wright as the men who handled the money and the true true to the money.

Wright as the men who handled the money and did the business, or at least the men who agreed to do so, as well as to offer protection to the dishonest riders in the combine. Wright, a business man nere, has all along posed as an innocent party in the Hicks case. Penn's confession would indicate that he may have been as deep in the mud as Hattleid was in the mire of the Hicks matter. It is hardly likely that the local stewards will reconsider the Hicks case. More probably Penn's statement will be forwarded to the Western Jockey Club. The exclusion of Landry from track privileges for the alleged pulling of Belvino was something of a blow to that Jockey, in assuce as he had a good contract beginning in the spring. The supposition was that Landry held Belvino in his first suart and then that he and his friends bet on him the day he was beaten by St. Tamman; The stewards claim to have clear evidence that Landry was in bad.

ST. LOUIS HOUSES DOING WELL.

St. Louis horses and horses that raced at St. Louis horses ammor have been hammering in and around the money. Most of the St. Louis animals, however, have not yet recovered from a hard campaign the past season, although a number of them are rounding to and may be heard from in the near future. Barney Schreiber scored two seconds with Jerry Hunt and Boundies. Both are useful sorts that can win when placed properly. S. W. Street, whose horses were all in poor flesh when at St. Louis, won a good face with Malmsell at the profitable odds of lib to I, and played most of his winnings back on Brush By the following day, but in this Instance had to be content with third position. Fixer & Co.'s Lord was once second. This old criple is in good bodily condition and should win zoon.

Honest effort in the saddle is quick to be appreciated by the trainers at the Fair Grounds. After Creamer's excellent ride and strong finish on Farmer Jim, Hildreth went to the little fellow in the paddock and told him he wanted him to do all his light weights for the balance of the season. Creamer is one of "Father Bill" Daly's apprentices. He can ride at about 78 pounds, and, in Hildreth's opinion, has the making of a good jockey. The lad will lose nothing in being under the tutelage of so able a trainer as Hildreth.

John W. Keisey, assistant secretary of the Washington Park Club, arrived from Chicago a day or two ago. Mr. Kelsey is making a trip among the racing and breeding centers in the interest of the Washington Park next summer." Said Mr. Kelsey, "and if the other Chicago tracks show proportionate liberality in their stake and purse offerings, the entire season ought to be the best ever known at the Windy City. We have increased the American Derby from $20,000 to $25,000, and the Hyde Park Stakes, which is for 2-year-olds, from $3,000 to $1,000. Our other stakes and handicaps remain at the old values. All are on the added-money plan. We still offer no purse next season of less value than $990, while our over-night events will range in value from $300 to $1,000 added each."

The Washington Park Club had a very prosperous season last yeer, and horsemen were hopeful that the purses might be increased to $800, which is Secretary Howard's ideal. Liberal money in purses is of more interest to the rank and file of horsemen than big money in a limited number of stakes. If the Chicago tracks expect to get the good horses and hold them they must loosen up the purse strings. The tendency is in that direction.

Insuring Race Track Bets.

Insuring Race Track Bets.

It is said that a company has been organized lately which may be incorporated under the laws of the State of New York governing limited lability companies. It is to be called the "Steeplachase Insurance Company," and its object will be to insure amounts wagered on jumping races from loss occasioned by the horse falling during the rac.

Suppose that a man considers Marylander's chance of winning a certain race a good one, barring the horse's propensity to fall over a fence when he gett a little tired. A refusal, peck, both or sullling of the lockey counts for nothing; the insurance goes only when the horse is actually gown.

Of course, the company has the lockey on its side, because no rider is going to throw his horse, even if that were possible; the results are too serious.

M. H. Tichenor will race in the East after the Memphis meeting.

"We have twenty-eight horses in training at Memphis," said G. W. Poole a day or two ago. "During the Memphis meeting I intend to weed these out, all but a carload, say about a dozen. I expect we will race East most of the season, although it's no two to one that Mr. Tichenor will not want at least part of the string back at Chicago for the Washington Park meeting. Mr. Tichenor has a lot of society friends in Chicago and, naturally, he likes to see his colors ap there. You can put it down as a certainty that if either Flocarline or Sidney C. SCHREIBER BET ON AMBERITA. Harney Schreiber had set his heart on the bonce of winning the first 2-vear-old race of the new year with one of his own breeding, and, believing Amberita would do the trick for him, he bet a considerable sum to stake on a three-furlong brush between a dozen green youngsters, of which any was upt to be left at the post with no recall flag. But Starter Dwyer got them away capitally, and received many compliments on his clever work. It was a rather gloomy New Year's Day for the genial Schreiber, for his speedy filly Sylvia Talbot, which he also backed, was beaten by Gavieta in the last race, and, besides that the big holiday crowd beat the ring badly and Barney had four books on. The one bright apot that aftermoon for the Missourian was Corrigan's clever win in the $2.00 New Year's Handicap.
